Referee in Water Case Leaves Hearing Unfinished.

OGDEN, Aug. 12.—In the contempt cases against George A. Fuller et al., in which Danlel Hamen was appointed as referee by Judge Ritchie of the Third District court, the proceedings came to an unsatisfactory, though not a final, termination this afternoon.

Judge Ritchie had made an order that testimony might be taken before the master until 5.30 tonight. At that hour the testimony of the defendants was not all in and the facts as to the contempt are, consequently, not completed.

not completed.

The plaintiffs agreed to hear testimony toright if the defendants would grant them twothirds of the time, but this was not agreed to, and the case will probably be resumed before Judge Ritchie in Salt Lake on Monday.

in the demand for some kinds of goods during parent than real. The first week of August ras an exceptionally good one for all sorts of retail dealers, and it is with this week that comparisons are made. Thus, even a normal volume of business appears at a disadvantage by contrast with an unusually good week. One shoe store and one suburban store have assigned during the week, but their suspension will have no effect upon other local concerns, as their creditors live chiefly in the East so, their creators live chiefly in the East Such failures as have occurred here are due to lack of capital rather than to insurficient trade. With the big department stores a competitors some of the smaller dealers fee that they must enlarge their range in order to meet this competition. In expanding they overstrain their credit and many a prosperous small business is ruined.

Dry Goods.

Dry Goods.

The dry goods stores were fairly busy all week. The late demand for summer goods has been up to the expectation of most of the dealers, though the increase of business over the same week of last year has not been co pronounced as for the preceding week. Millinery and wash goods are being closed out. The run on the shirt waist counters continues. Advanced fall styles are coming in and are being shown to some extent, but are not pushed. An air of uncertainty is shown when inquiries are made as to what will be popular during the autumn. It is not believed that there will be any great change in fabrics from a year ago, although Europe is yet to be heard from. Ultimately the question will bave to be decided by the buyers. Silks and patent leathers are being exploited in the Eastern markets and the latter will figure even on the fall and winter hats. Collections are fair, in some cases better than last year.

House Furnishings. Trade in furniture and house furnishings is not so good as last week—an exceptional week by the way—but is fully abreast with that of a year ago. Dealers regard the falling of as simply a part of the fluctuation of trade Collections are slow.

Groceries.

This has been an off week at the grocery stores. Still the grocers do not complain. They have been taught by experience to look for a slackening of trade in the month of August and are thankful that the duliness did not make its appearance until after the first week. They attribute the usual August quiet to the arrival of so many hucksters from the country with fruit and green goods. Camping parties are still going out and there is a fair demand for canned catables. Collections are fair and current accounts easy.

Hardware.

Hardware.

Hardware.

Retail hardware dealers confess to a considerable failing off in sales from the preceding week, which was exceptionally lively. Trade is about the same as for the corresponding week, hist year, while the week before this was away beyond its counterpart of 1994. They have failen down this summer on one class of trade that is generally rushing; that is, the sale of fruit jars and other accessories to "putting up fruit." The stock simply will not move and inquiries go to show that housewives are not putting up much fruit this year. It has been scarce and high and has gone out of market while the women were waiting for it to become cheap enough to purchase. To offset this loss the trade in machinery of various kinds has been remarkably lively. On the whole, the outlook for fall trade in this line is regarded as extremely flattering. The beginning of construction on the Western Pacific from this end will, it is pointed out, be of immense benefit to all merchants and more especially to dealers in hey, grain, feed, teaming supplies, tools, etc. The building of the Euclic cut-off, it is said, brought to Ogden a million dollars. Hardware collections are good and the current accounts are being paid with more regularity every very. Miss May Hume entertained Wednesday af-ernoon for Miss Sears and Miss Isabel Bears ternoon for Miss Sears and Miss Isabel Sears of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Joel J. Harris was hostess at euchre Friday afternoon. Her new home was artistically decorated with goldenred and sunflowers. Miss Tulle Baker was the fortunate winner of the first price, a handsoms hook, and Miss Hums carried away the consolation, also a book. The guests were: Miss Baker, Miss Hume, Miss Sook, Miss Sook, Miss Tyler, Miss Boreman, Miss Sears, Miss Isabel Sears, Miss Boreman, Miss Sears, Miss Isabel Sears, Miss Andrews, Mrs. Claude Roberts, Miss Stein and Miss Barrows.

Friday evening Miss Tellitha Browning was counts are being paid with more regularity every year.

Men's Clothing.

Outfitters of men and boys assert that the week just closed is an improvement on last week and that the whole summer season has been much better than a year ago. Fall and winter clothing is being received and kept at hand, but there is little domain for it as yet, and no effort is being made to push its sale. Roal Estate.

Real Estate.

One of the noticeable features in the real estate market during the past week has been the increased number of purchases by railroad men on the west side. A great many are buying little homes on the installment plan flig transactions in business property are still conspicuous by their absence, although deals are pending that will probably materialize early in the fall. The rush to Provo for Ulntah lands has had the effect of bringing many strangers from distant points through Sait Lake and this, the real estate mus believe, will indirectly be of great benefit to this city, of still greater importance is the amouncement that the Western Pacific railroad will be built from the east to the west. A man who should know something about it gives the opinion that 15,000 persons will locate here within a year after the construction of the line commences, to take advantage of the increased decount for all times and the part of all times and the part of the line commences, to take advantage of the increased decount for all times. within a year after the construction of the line commences, to take advantage of the in-creased demand for all kinds of commodifies.

Commercial Stocks.

Commercial Stocks.

Trading in local industrial and commercial stocks has been very dull all week, owing to the preponderance of would-be buyers over the sellers. The stocks are held principally as investments and respond very slowly to any speculative movement. The $80.00 of Idaho Sugar stock apportioned to stockholders at jur to pay for the Blackfoot sugar plant has been taken up without materially affecting the price of the share, which is now firm at $13 to $13.15. There promises to be a strong demand for the stock of the Sampete and Seyler Sugar company, which has decided to erect its plant between Mt. Pleasant and Moront. Following are the latest quotations:

Great Crowd of Commercial Men and Friends Enjoy a Day at Beautiful Resort.

Fully four thousand people-wives, mothers, sweethearts, sisters and friends of commercial travelers residing in Salt Lake City and Ogden, journeyed to the Lagoon yesterday afternoon and last evening. They took advantage of the ex-cursion rates on the various railroads, and towns as far north as Preston, Ida., and as far south as Richfield, Utah, were represented in good numbers.

Owned the Resort.

Commercial travelers, especially those members of Salt Lake council No. 81 and Ogden council No. 248, of the Order of United Commercial Travelers, are noted for their ability to arrange perfect out-ings. The members of the two councils owned the resort last night, and if such could be possible, it can be said that they "bested" themselves in their attempts at a good time for themselves and their friends. Merriment and good fellowship were the predominating features of the occasion, and held sway until late in the night.

Had a Good Time.

Had a Good Time.

The members of both councils constituted a "committee on enjoyment." They were on hand at the resort early in the afternoon and extended the "glad hand" to every person that entered the gates. Every one thoroughly understood that they were the guests of the travelers and were told to make themselves "at home." The excursionlets followed these instructions to the best of their ability.

Watched Pall Game Watched Ball Game.

Watched Ball Game.

The crowd at the resort began to swell at 5 o'clock, upon the arrival of the Ogden train, with 400 visitors. Straightway the crowd filed to the baseball ground and watched with great interest the "foot traveling" of the members of the teams representing the councils of Salt Lake and Ogden. The performance of many of the players on both teams made it clear that they had done but little ball-twirling since the joint outing of the two councils at the Lagoon last year. They limbered up in good style, however, and furnished good amusement for the spectators that filled the grand-stand to its utmost capacity.

Enjoyed Picnic Dinner.

Enjoyed Picnic Dinner. After the ball game, the great crowd enjoyed, for the most part, a picnic dinner, daintily served by the wives of the travelers and their guests. The gasoline launches on the lake and the other attractions held the attention of the crowd for a time, until the evening programme of dancing began. The dancing pavilion then became the center of interest and remained so until the outing was brought to a close.

CHINA MAY SAVE RUSSIA'S FACE

May Be Called on to Provide the Indemnity Required.

ASKED TO PAY ROUNDLY FOR RE-TRANSFER MANCHURIA

Witte Said to Be Man Who Can Hypnotize Celestials Into the Deal.

Special Cable to The Tribune, LONDON, Aug. 12 .- All eyes are now focused on the peace conference in the United States. There is occasion to believe that M. Witte, while in Paris, had a number of conversations with French statesmen and financiers which will have an important bearing upon the attitude which he will assume at the final conclusions of the peace conference when the lines are sharply drawn Opinions differ as to what the purport of those conversations were, but certain indications seem to suggest that they turned largely upon the part which Russia would like China to play in the proposed settlement.

One Important Factor.

Owing to a combination of circumstances and to a large number of causes, perhaps not yet even fully un-derstood, China is likely to prove the most important and probably the most difficult factor to deal with in the peace conference. China's attitude toward the peace conference itself is attracting a great deal of attention in Europe, both here and on the continent. It is recalled that her perennial policy since the Sung dynasty has been to encourage dispute between other nations from which she herself might derive advantage. In other words, she plays the same role of politics in Asia that the equally subtle and perhaps equally troulesome Turk plays in the politics of Furnes.

Reform Is Hopeless.

It is quite generally believed here that reform in China is hopeless. China lacks all the elements which existed in Japan at the beginning of the Meilifirst, the throne is a rallying point on which centered the nation's reverent affection, second, a large party of progressive leaders who to hereditary prestige added high intellect, profound foresight and invincible courage; third, a nation swayed by patriotic sentiment, not selfish individualism.

Won't Rely on Mikado. According to the arguments of the Japanese here and in France and in Germany it would seem as though they would like to have it appear that China's only present hope consists in trusting Japan and adopting the lat-ter's progressive councils. Yet, according to all accounts, China seems unable to discriminate between the power which formerly trampled on her soverwhich formerly trampled on her sover-eignty and the power which rescued her territory from the armed aggression of Russia. No one believes that China is willing to rely on the good faith of the Russia. Mikado's declaration of war, which openly announced that Japan's main object was to prevent the absorption of Manchuria by Russia and to maintain the sovereignty of China

Russia Encourages China The convenience to Russia of introducing China into the discussions is obvious; and the reply lately sent from St. Petersburg to the Chinese note re-fusing to recognize any arrangements affecting Chinese interests unless China is herself consulted about them, leaves the door open for further efforts in this direction. Japan met the position of China with a polite but firm negative. Russia, on the other hand, after explaining that the negotiations must be onducted by the plenipotentiaries the belligerents, went on to state that she recognizes that the Chinese Government is interested in certain of the questions to be debated.

Platitude With a Purpose.

That, it is urged, is a platitude. But it is also urged that it is not the habit of Russian diplomatists to utter plati-tudes without a purpose. China is intudes without a purpose. China is in-terested as the lawful owner of Man- ing druggists.

churia, which Russia on various fraudulent pretexts, and which she still con-tinues to hold except in those parts from which Japan has driven her.

One thing which is regarded as in-teresting if not curious is the fact that the Novosti, the Russian newspaper which is generally made to say what the Russian Foreign Office wishes to have said, should have become preoccupied upon this various subject of China. It predicts that the questions of Manchuria and Korea will give rise to innumerable complications. These countries, it points out with accuracy from the purely technical point of view, have not been conquered by either Russia or Japan, and it boldly draws the conclusion that neither of these powers has the right to dispose of them.

Witte Flirts With Frenchmen.

It is believed here that M. Witte sounded the French statesmen and financiers while he was in Paris upon these very points. His statesments that he fears that the demands of the Japanese may render an agreement im-possible and that in reality he does not possess the power to conclude peace without taking the matter back to St. Petersburg have not had a tendency to allay the feeling of alarm which exists in the various capitals of Europe to the effect that the last state of the Japanese and Russian war may be worse than the first, that the military operations have only commenced on both sides and that the struggle may yet prove the longest drawn out and the most gigantic in history when the number of men engaged on both sides are considered.

What He Should Expect.

The Russian newspapers do not hesitate to openly say that M. Witte expects to return at once to Russia should the terms which he expects to communicate to the representations of Japan, at the peace conference prove unac-ceptable. He has announced that Japan must not wound the amour propre of the Russian people or endanger their future as a nation. Yet it is difficult to understand how he can escape the con-clusion that Japan will be obliged to exact substantial concessions from a defeated enemy.

Transfer of Manchuria Inevitable.

Here in London, where the Asiatic question has been studied with unusual interest because of the fact that Japan is regarded as the ally of Great Britain, It is believed that a re-transfer of Man-churia to China is inevitable. And it is believed that Russia must have aiready made up her mind to this sacri-But how to sugar-coat the bitter pill-how to prevent it from wounding the amour propre and endangering the future of Russia as a nation appears to be the problem which confronts M.

Has Expert Aid.

It is regarded as significant that after I. Witte's arrival in the United States should have expert aid. He is joined M. Pokotiloff, the former director of the Russo-Chinese bank, which has played so important a part in the poli-cies of Russia in the far East, and is now the accredited representative of Russia at Peking. M. Pokotiloff will be able to give M. Witte invaluable help in the advocacy of all propositions which have a tendency to aid Russia, even at the expense of China.

Wants Money From China.

but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels, give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipiency and all danger avoided. The castor oil and this remedy should be procured at once and kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and may be relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by all lead-in the discharge of her civilizing mission. M Witte well knows how to picture and paint in glowing colors the work of Russia in the far East. He will insist upon showing how she has made rallways, roads and bridges; how she has built towns and wheres and she has built towns and wharves and factories and barracks; how, in fact, she has been compelled to do the police work of the world for a thousand miles along her southern border.

Can't Expect Free Gift.

The Chinese, it will be intimated, cannot be so unreasonable as to suppose that they will get a free gift of all of these costly improvements. Not only must Russia be recouped for her lavish expenditure on them, but she will have to be paid for her trouble and outlay in performing the results. to be paid for her trouble and outlay in performing the manifold administrative duties which she has performed for them during her prolonged occupation of the provinces. Manchuria, in fact, will be represented to China as subject to a first charge for the sum claimed by Russia, and she will be told that on payment thereof to Japan, the province will be restored to her. She will, of course, have to raise the money, but it is said Russia may be willing to assist her in this. her in this.

Kindly Offer Guarantee.

Russia could not, of course, lend the money, but she could gladly offer Pe-king the help of her guarantee. A Rus-sian guarantee has already figured in earlier Chinese loans, and the Chinese who distrust Japan may be inclined to lean on Russian support in this matter. could they be induced to accept it the could they be induced to accept it the triumph of Russian fiscal diplomacy would be complete. China will have supplied the war indemnity which, it is expected, Russia will have to pay Japan.

Reason for Paris Visit.

It was for these reasons, it is be-neved, that M. Witte visited Paris and consulted with M. Rouvier. The chief questiof, it would appear, in connec-tion with this tangle of finance and politics, is whether Japan can be in-duced to accept it. For Japan must be consulted, and there is no data to show that her statesmen are the last people in the world to sacrifice the abiding interests of their country to supposed advantages of a financial or a diplomatic

Commenting upon this particular proposition, a member of the Japanese legation here, whose name for obvious reasons cannot be given in an interview,

"Face" Will Be Saved.

"How can the objects of M. Witte's mission be more completely or more mission be more completely or more brilliantly attained than by making it at the cost of somebody else. Her susceptibilities would be spared as well as her pocket, could she contrive to make China pay it for her to Japan. Her face' would be saved, and if the business were adroitly managed she might actually obtain political advantages by it which would admit in skilled hands of indefinite development hereafter. Such a scheme undoubtedly presents at-Such a scheme undoubtedly presents attractions to the Russian imagination, and M. Witte, with his vast experience in the art of combining wide political designs with great financial operations, is the very man to be chosen to formu-late and to press it."

Wants Money From China.

Russia will, of course, assume a friendship for China. Indications are that China will be able to secure the Russian consent for the re-transfer of Manchuria, provided she will pay a large sum of money for it. Russia has been in possession of Manchuria for a number of years, and it will be urged that she has spent a great deal upon it.

A Warning to Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule, it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, In the East well-to-do families generally pleasures of the country, and to alrord an opportunity for a certain amount of land-scape treatment; but this land is and can be nothing but the front and back yards of the house. As an architectural type it is intermediate between the town and country house—Architectural Record

President and Peace.

Fresident and Peace.

Four times has the President intervened in the last few years in the general interests of peace and humanity; first, in having given actual life to the moribund Hague arbitration tribunal by submitting to it its first case—the dispute between Mexico and this country over the Pious fund; second, in obliging Europe to settle peacefully the Venezuelan affair; third, in proposing a second peace conference at The Hague; fourth, in now intervening to bring about negotiations for peacle.—Current Literature.
